FROM OUR RECTOR

Dear Parishioners,

We have entered Lent. This season is many things, but one thing it calls us to do is to simplify our lives. It is a time to refocus. It is a time to get back to basics. It is a time, especially considering everything that we have had to deal with in this last year, where perhaps we've allowed different habits to develop, Lent takes us back to what really matters in life.

To make Lent a special time we need to do things differently. In all our lives, we know if we want to change something, then we need to change our routine and habits. That is why there is fasting and days of abstinence in Lent. We change our regular eating habits to be more mindful of sacrifice and repentance. After all, repentance is the bottom line purpose of Lent - "Reform your lives and believe in the gospel," as Jesus says.

Lent's refocusing includes prayer. That is essential. If our prayer routines have waned during the past year, Lent is the perfect time to help us put that priority back into place. This Lent, we will continue to have our Lenten Stations of the Cross and our Lenten Retreat with Sacred Art. series. I am very grateful to Father Povis for preparing the various works of art for reflection each week. To assist you in deepening your prayer this lent, the parish has also provided copies of the Lenten Companion available at the main entrance of the Cathedral.

Besides prayer and fasting, our refocusing efforts for a good Lent calls us to go outside ourselves. That means using our time, talent and treasure for others. While "almsgiving" is the traditional term used for this component of Lent, what is behind this is our concerns for our brothers and sisters, especially those who are in need and less fortunate than we are. One example of this is the Rice Bowl project, which we take home and fill up through the season with our coins and dollars, then return at the end of Lent to support the efforts of Catholic Relief Services, helping those in need throughout the country and our world.

You also check out Cross Catholic Outreach, which is a Catholic ministry that partners with bishops, priests, sisters, and religious and lay workers to provide food, water, housing, education, support for orphans and vulnerable children, health care, disaster relief, and the love of our Lord Jesus Christ to the poorest of the poor in over 30 countries around the world. Crosscatholic.org

Recently, I came across this quote: "A comfort zone is a beautiful place, but nothing ever grows there." I think that's an appropriate description for a good Lent - to get out of our comfort zone and grow closer to the Lord.

May this Lent be that special time for us.

ARCHBISHOP'S COLUMN

It's important to receive, share the Word of God with great ardor

We must give our attention to the fervor with which we share the Good News

Dear brothers and sisters in Christ,

This week's readings focus our attention on the Word of God.

We hear from the Gospel of John: "Your words, Lord, are spirit and life."

We hear from the prophet Isaiah: "Just as from the heavens the rain and snow come down and do not return there till they have watered the earth, making it fertile and fruitful ... So shall my word be that goes forth from my mouth; it shall not return to me void."

We hear from the Gospel of Matthew: "One does not live on bread alone, but on every word that comes forth from the mouth of God."

Jesus gives us the Our Father so that we can pray with the very words He gave us.

We hear from the prophet Jonah: "The word of the Lord came to Jonah a second time."

Finally, twice at the end of the week, we hear Jesus in the Sermon on the Mount speak as the living Word of God: "You have heard that it was said ... But I say to you ..." Reflecting on this the Catechism of the Catholic Church says: "In Jesus, the same Word of God, that had resounded on Mount Sinai to give the written law to Moses, made itself heard anew on the Mount of the Beatitudes" (CCC 581).

The readings for the week are very clear in focusing our attention on the Word of God, and I'd like to draw out two aspects of that focus in conjunction with our "Disciples Make Disciples" vision for evangelization.

First, it's important for us to receive the Word of God with new ardor. When someone talks over our favorite song or a movie we're watching, we tell them to keep quiet! Do we have that same ardor for listening to the Word of God, or do we let other things in our lives "talk over" our attentiveness to the Word? Discovering a new ardor for receiving the Word of God is important because He's the key to our eternal life! We can start to receive that life, even now, more deeply — but we have to want it.

ARCHBISHOP MITCHELL ROZANSKI

SERVE THE LORD WITH GLADNESS

Second, It's important for us to share the Word of God with others with new ardor. The Word of God, dwelling in heaven from all eternity, didn't stay there! He longed to communicate Himself to the world and therefore came into the world as the Word incarnate. That same Word of God now dwells in us and doesn't want to stay there! He longs to go forth again — but now to go forth from us as the Word spoken and shared in our words.

When we have good news about the Chiefs or the Cardinals or the Blues we can't wait to share it with someone. That's good! But it's time for us to discover a new ardor — no less than our ardor for sports — for sharing the Word of God.

Medieval Paris was not only a center of learning, debate, art, and architecture; it was also a capital of musical creation and innovation, the most important in Europe. You will hear the magnificent vocal music sung within the walls of the great cathedral, as well as miracle tales, student songs, and minstrel turns performed in Notre Dame's shadow, on either bank of the steadily flowing Seine. A Lenten Retreat with Sacred Art

Week 1: Adam and Eve in the Garden of Eden,
by Johann Wenzel Peter
(Located in the All Saints chapel)

We begin our Lenten journey with this image which depicts the very moments before the initiation of God's great rescue mission for the human race. The artist, Peter Wenzel, produced several paintings of animals in the late 1700s and Pope Gregory XVI furnished the papal apartments with 20 of them during his pontificate. This painting is the artist's interpretation of the earthly paradise which was God's initial intention for creation before the first humans introduced disharmony into it through their free choice to sin. We find here animals and humans living in harmony with one another without fear or shame: all in healthy relationship with one another and with God. We also find the Evil One, imaged in the Book of Genesis as a serpent, suggesting to Adam and Eve that something even greater than paradise is available to them if they turn away from God and attempt to grasp after happiness for themselves in the form of the fruit which God forbade them to eat.

The entire event of Jesus' Passion, Death, and Resurrection which we will commemorate at the end of our Lenten journey was necessitated by our first parents' choice to believe this lie; to believe the lie that God isn't as good and as generous as He reveals Himself to be, but that God was somehow holding out on them. Even in the midst of paradise in which God availed every legitimate earthly delight to them, Adam and Eve were deceived into believing that God didn't have their best interest in mind. They were deceived into believing that they'd somehow miss out on something that makes life truly great and fulfilling if they obeyed God and trusted Him to provide for them.

We live very far from paradise, and so this temptation is all the more powerful for each one of us. Day in and day out the world, the flesh, and the devil try to convince us to grasp after happiness and fulfillment for ourselves. We are constantly fed the lie that what God wants for us might not be all that great, and so we'd better grab ahold of as much pleasure, power, wealth, fame, and success as we possibly can for ourselves. The Evil One is very unoriginal in his strategies and in the lies he suggests to us, and because we humans are weak and easily confused, we keep falling for them.

Lent is an opportunity to declutter our lives and our hearts so that we might examine what lies may have slowly made their way into our subconscious. We fast in order to detach ourselves from earthly pleasures and satisfaction. We give alms to detach ourselves from earthly wealth. We pray in order to turn our hearts and minds away from things of the world and make more space for God. As we make this sacred time and space in our lives for God, consider asking Him to reveal to you which version of the Evil One's lie has made its way into your heart. Where am I slow to believe that God really wants what is best for me? What earthly thing or experience or pleasure has the most power over me; what do I tend to grasp after most frequently and how does God wish to heal the distrust in my heart which underlies this?

Though the sin of Adam and Eve cast us out of paradise, in 6 short weeks we will proclaim, "O happy fault! O truly necessary sin of Adam... that earned so great, so glorious a Redeemer!" God is powerful enough to bring good out of evil on the cosmic level and at the level of our own individual lives. May this holy season be a time of transformation for all of us in which we detach ourselves from the things of earth so as to be more completely attached to the things of heaven.

Confessions will be heard during Adoration.

Weekly Thoughts on Giving

"After John had been arrested, Jesus came to Galilee proclaiming the gospel of God...." - Mark 1:14

Have you ever thought about how difficult it must have been for Jesus to go to Galilee, knowing that John had just been arrested for teaching the same message that He was proclaiming. It took great love and trust for Jesus to do what the Father had sent Him here on earth to do. In the same way, living a stewardship lifestyle takes great love and trust from us. We must be willing to surrender completely to God, trusting that He will always give us all that we need to fulfill His plan for us.
