FROM OUR RECTOR

Dear Parishioners,

In scripture, as Jesus was about to die, he speaks to Mary and his beloved disciple John: “Woman, behold your son.” Then he says to John, “Behold your Mother.” And from that hour the disciple took her into his home. (John 19:26-27). St. John takes Mary into his home, or into his care, as some translations put it, and from this time Jesus gives Mary to us as our mother and us to her as her children.

Mary is a great model and example for us and especially for parents who are watched by their children as their behavior is observed. Certainly, through her “yes” to the angel consenting God’s plan, Mary is a great model of faith and trust in God. She believed and allowed God to work through her to change the course of human history. Mary said “yes” to the unknown and opened her very being to God’s work in her life.

This was a life not free of pain and sorrow, as the seven sorrows of Mary attest. Woman of faith and courage that she was, she was able to face and persevere through these trials. Fr. Bertran Buby, SM, refers to Mary’s “listening heart” in his writings. This is a great description of Mary’s openness to God and how she reflected on the challenges of life in the context of discerning God’s will.

So often in our lives, we feel the need to respond and react immediately without following the model Mary has given us through her “listening heart.” All we have to do is take a look at various social media postings that display negative and destructive use of language, and we see us at our worst.

As we continue through the month of May and celebrate and honor Mary and her role in our faith history, we can also take time to reflect on how she is a model for us. Mary gives us a great example and witness of how to reflect upon and act on the movement of God in our lives

Monsignor Henry Breier

Remember, O most gracious Virgin Mary, that never was it known that anyone who fled to thy protection, implored thy help, or sought thine intercession was left unaided.

Inspired by this confidence, I fly unto thee, O Virgin of virgins, my mother; to thee do I come, before thee I stand, sinful and sorrowful. O Mother of the Word Incarnate, despise not my petitions, but in thy mercy hear and answer me.

ARCHBISHOP'S COLUMN

The Holy Spirit fulfills many longings

As we approach Pentecost, we can pray for an answer to our longing for Christian unity

Dear brothers and sisters in Christ,

Do you long for anything?

Kids long for superpowers! Adults long for simpler but deeper things: wisdom, peace and reconciliation.

This week, the Church longs for something: the outpouring of the Holy Spirit at Pentecost. It's no accident that the readings all week highlight various facets of Christian longing.

For example, when Paul is in Ephesus, he asks the people: "Did you receive the Holy Spirit?" Their reply is telling: "We have never even heard that there is a Holy Spirit." They were missing something. Paul noticed it, and longed for them to receive a deeper life.

We read the end of the Acts of the Apostles this week. Jesus tells Paul, "Just as you have borne witness to my cause in Jerusalem, so you must also bear witness in Rome." When the Acts of the Apostles close, Paul is still preaching in Rome. The astute biblical reader, who knows what comes next, is left longing for something. Only one thing is left to complete Paul's "giving witness" in Rome — his martyrdom.

We celebrate the feast of St. Matthias on May 14. With Judas' departure, there were only 11 apostles. They knew there needed to be 12, but they were left longing for something. St. Matthias was the answer to that longing.

In John 17, Jesus prays that His disciples might be one. His prayer is the foundation of all prayer for Christian unity: "so that they may all be one, as you, Father, are in me and I in you, that they also may be in us, that the world may believe that you sent me." Christian unity is something for which we long, and ought to pray, both because Christ desired it and because it's intimately tied up with evangelization. According to the words of Jesus, Christian unity is a sign that the Father sent Him. What, then, is our disunity but a counter-sign to the Gospel?

St. Cyril of Jerusalem uses a beautiful metaphor, saying that the Holy Spirit is like water. Water remains itself, yet has the capacity to bring forth many different fruits. Adapting his examples for life in the Midwest, we could say that water brings forth grass, flowers, strawberries, apples, corn, soybeans, wheat and so on. The same is true in people: From different religious orders to different spiritual personalities, the Holy Spirit remains ever itself but brings forth many fruits and, in doing so, fulfills many longings.

I'd like to suggest two things, then.

First is that we subject our desires to prayer. As fallen creatures, our longings are all over the place — some are good, and some are not! So, to prepare for Pentecost, let's do as Catholics something we're not accustomed to doing as Americans: Place our desires before the Holy Spirit for their transformation before we act on them.

Second, we offer a prayer for Christian unity. There are wrong ways to think of that unity and wrong ways to work toward it, but Jesus prayed for it. Lack of unity contradicts the Gospel that we're trying to proclaim. So, let's pray that the Spirit will lead us on the right path toward the unity Jesus desired for us.

The Ascension of the Lord

Today is our liturgical celebration of the Ascension of the Lord, when Jesus is taken to heaven on the fortieth day after Easter in front of his disciples. Our Gospel for today was taken from the conclusion of the Gospel of Mark.

There are similarities in the reports of Jesus' Ascension found in the Synoptic Gospels—Mark, Matthew, and Luke. In each case, Jesus assigns his disciples the task of proclaiming the gospel message to the entire world. There are also notable distinctions. In the Gospels of Mark and Matthew, the disciples are sent by to baptize and preach. In Luke's Gospel; however, the commission to baptize is absent. Instead, Jesus directs the disciples to return to Jerusalem to await the fulfillment of his promise to send them the Holy Spirit. Interestingly, only the Gospels of Mark and Luke actually report Jesus' ascension into heaven. Matthew's Gospel concludes with Jesus' promise to remain with his disciples forever. Only the Gospel of Mark notes that Jesus ascended to sit at the right hand of God. In noting this, Mark teaches that Jesus' ascension affirms the glory Jesus received from God after his death and Resurrection.

Even if this ending to Mark's Gospel was written by someone other than the Evangelist, in the commission that Jesus gives to his disciples, there are elements that are quite typical of Mark's Gospel. The signs that will accompany belief in Jesus are as vivid as the action performed by Jesus during his ministry. Those who believe in Jesus will be empowered to do what Jesus himself has done. During his ministry, Jesus sent his disciples to preach, to heal, and to drive out unclean spirits in His name. Now they are sent again to do these things and more. From his place with God in heaven, Jesus helped his disciples, and he continues to help us as we try to live as his followers.

Weekly Thoughts on Giving

“This is my commandment: love one another as I love you. No one has greater love than this, to lay down one’s life for one’s friends.” - John 15:12-13

Do you love Jesus? Do you consider Him your friend? Jesus says that if we love Him we would be willing to offer whatever we have to Him, not because we want praise and glory, but simply because we love Him. Does your giving seem mechanical out of obligation or do you share freely out of love?

LAMP interpreters translate in more than 48 different languages, including American Sign Language (ASL).

LAMP offers a free Community Interpreting Line for limited English-speaking families in our community that is available 24/7 and 365 days a year. Call 1-888-260-3791 for assistance. Infant Baptism

According to the mind of the Church, parents are obliged to see that infants are baptized within the first weeks after birth. As soon as possible after the birth, or even before it, parents should request the sacrament for their child and are to be properly instructed in preparation for it. Godparents are also encouraged to have baptismal preparation before the child is born. If you are a registered parishioner who is or is about to become a parent or godparent, contact the parish office at 314-373-8202 to schedule a baptism.

A Thought on The Sanctity Of Life

“The Lord says to us, ‘Do not fear: I am with you’ (Isaiah 41:10). He speaks these words not as one who merely observes our pain, but as one who experienced immense suffering. And the very wounds that bear witness to his suffering indicate the essence of our identity and worth: we are loved by God. Reflecting on the healed wounds of the Risen Christ, we see that even our most difficult trials can be the place where God manifests his victory. He makes all things beautiful. He makes all things new.”
