FROM OUR RECTOR

Dear Parishioners,

We are in week two of the cleaning of the Baldachino and mosaics that surround the sanctuary. The workers have made some significant progress. Colors that have not been seen for years are emerging from the layers of dust, and the cross that adorns the very top is now free of cobwebs and shining so brightly. We have discovered that in the walls and Baldachino, there are different types of stone; each type needs another variant of the solution to clean it properly. Thus, I am so grateful to the John Tiedeman Company for their careful work to ensure the work is done perfectly.

Last Sunday we celebrated the feast of Corpus Christi. This Solemnity is inseparable from the Holy Thursday Mass of Lord's Supper, in which the institution of the Eucharist is also celebrated. While on the evening of Holy Thursday we relive the mystery of Christ who offers himself to us in the bread broken and wine poured out, today, in celebration of Corpus Christi, this same mystery is proposed for the adoration and meditation of God's people. I want to extend to everyone who assisted in the planning and execution of Mass my heartfelt gratitude. Because of the weather, we had to adjust quickly in the morning, and the staff did so with expertise and great joy.

If you are a member of our Flocknote email system, you should have received an email from me announcing that Jerry Danekas is retiring from his volunteer position as Head Usher. Words cannot express my thanks to Jerry for his many years of service to the parish and archdiocese as he scheduled and organized ushers for special Masses and events. Jerry gave of himself and did so always with great joy.

This week we also welcomed Jennifer Stanard as a new member of the Cathedral staff as she takes on the position of Director of Advancement. Jennifer has worked for many years at the Archdiocese of St. Louis as the Vice-Chancellor for Special Projects and brings with her many years of experience. Please join me in welcoming her to the Cathedral Basilica Parish team.

ARCHBISHOP'S COLUMN

Jesus and the saints set the example of sacrificing to change the world

When we rightly object to aspects of our world, we need to sacrifice to make our objections carry weight

Dear brothers and sisters in Christ,

I'd like us to reflect on two themes this week. The first comes from the Our Father, which is one of our Gospel readings this week.

St. Cyprian notes: "Above all, [Jesus] did not want us to pray by ourselves in private or for ourselves alone. We do not say 'My Father, who art in heaven,' nor 'Give me this day my daily bread.'"

Let's pause there. Nine times the Our Father uses "our" or "we" or "us." I wonder: Do we really think that way — in terms of "us," in terms of belonging to a single body or a single family? I think, more often than not, we think in terms of rugged individualism.

Consider how a family sits at Mass: all together. Then consider how we, as a general congregation, often sit at Mass: with as much "safety space" between people as possible. Consider how a group of people drive in a caravan: always thinking of the others. Now consider how we, as a general population, drive on the highways: every driver for him- or herself.

I think this is one of the places we need a conversion in the Church. But what we need is not just an intellectual conversion; we can talk ourselves into the fact that we're one body in Christ. What we need is an imaginative conversion, where we instinctively think that way. We don't hesitate to sit next to strangers at a Cardinals game, cheer together and join in "the wave" when it circles the stadium! We don't hesitate to transform our neighborhoods into welcoming spaces for Halloween and make conversation with strangers. Why are we so hesitant to do those same things as members of the Church? Because we've not yet really and deeply been converted to thinking in terms of "we."

The second thing I'd like us to reflect on is

ARCHBISHOP MITCHELL ROZANSKI

SERVE THE LORD
WITH GLADNESS

sacrifice.

There's plenty to object to in the world these days. But people seem to expect that an objection shouldn't cost us anything but words, and that our words (or outrage) alone should be sufficient to change the world.

Very simply, that's not how the "economy" of the spiritual world works! There has to be some sacrifice to make our objection carry weight.

Every ancient culture knew this. Now, to be sure, they were wrong about human sacrifice. But if the ancients were wrong about what needed to be sacrificed, they were right about the fact that there needed to be a sacrifice. The ancients made one kind of error about sacrifice; we've simply fallen into the opposite error in thinking that sacrifice is obsolete!

Let's go back to basics: Jesus made a sacrifice. This week we celebrate the Nativity of St. John the Baptist; he made a sacrifice. We celebrate the feast day of St. Thomas More and St. John Fisher; both made a sacrifice. Those sacrifices changed the world!

Every previous generation has known this truth about sacrifice, but we seem to have forgotten it. It's time to remember it. If we follow Jesus and the saints, then we'll realize that we have to make sacrifices. If we study them carefully, we'll learn what to sacrifice and how. Then we'll be able to change the world.

Update: Cleaning the baldachino and sanctuary

As we enter the second week of the massive cleaning project, we thought it important to give an update.

The cleaning is going well. The difference is absolutely remarkable. We are grateful to John Tiedeman for the tremendous and thorough job they are doing with the cleaning. Please see the below photos for a before and after comparison.

As a reminder, the St. Cecelia Chapel opens at 6:30 a.m. and weekday Masses and Saturday at 8:00 a.m. continue to be celebrated in this chapel.

The Gospel of the Lord

At the sight of the crowds, Jesus' heart was moved with pity for them because they were troubled and abandoned, like sheep without a shepherd.

Then he said to his disciples,

"The harvest is abundant but the laborers are few; so ask the master of the harvest to send out laborers for his harvest."

Then he summoned his twelve disciples and gave them authority over unclean spirits to drive them out and to cure every disease and every illness.

The names of the twelve apostles are these:

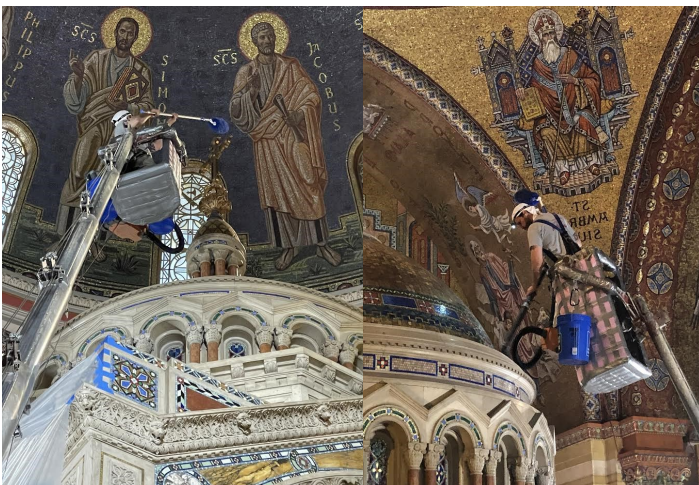

First, Simon called Peter, and his brother Andrew; James the son of Zebedee, and his brother John; Philip and Bartholomew, Thomas and Matthew the tax collector; James the son of Alphaeus, and Thaddeus; Simon from Cana, and Judas Iscariot who betrayed him.

Jesus sent out these twelve after instructing them thus,

"Do not go into pagan territory or enter a Samaritan town. go rather to the lost sheep of the house of Israel. As you go make this proclamation: 'The Kingdom of Heaven is at hand.'"

Cure the sick, raise the dead, cleanse lepers, drive out demons. Without cost you have received, without cost you are to give."

On Eagle Wings

The more that we pray over these readings, the more they can affect us. When we listen to the first reading, from the Book of Exodus, we must wonder what was in the minds of God's "chosen people" when God says "I bore you up on eagle wings and brought you here to myself." When these chosen people fled from Egypt, it was a miraculous event in their lives. They never really believed that they could be free.

When Pharaoh's army pursued them, they must have felt that they would be destroyed, and yet the sea opened before them and they escaped. But that was the beginning. Then we hear all about their stories of not having enough water, not having enough food, of the problems of going through the desert—and on and on and on. This does not sound like being born up on eagle wings and being brought to the mountain of God.

Sometimes we can get caught up in our own sufferings and not see what is really happening. If we look at the sufferings of the chosen people in the desert, we can't possibly describe it as being born up on eagle wings. On the other hand, if we look at their escape into freedom and their arriving at the mountain of God, we begin to understand the eagle wings. They could not have been there if God had not sustained them and helped them.

This is surely a part of the lesson of this Sunday that we are celebrating. We must begin to look at the deeper meanings of history, both the history of salvation and our own personal history of walking with God. So often we get caught up only in our present sufferings and don't keep an awareness of where God is leading us. Always God is leading us to encounter His divine presence.

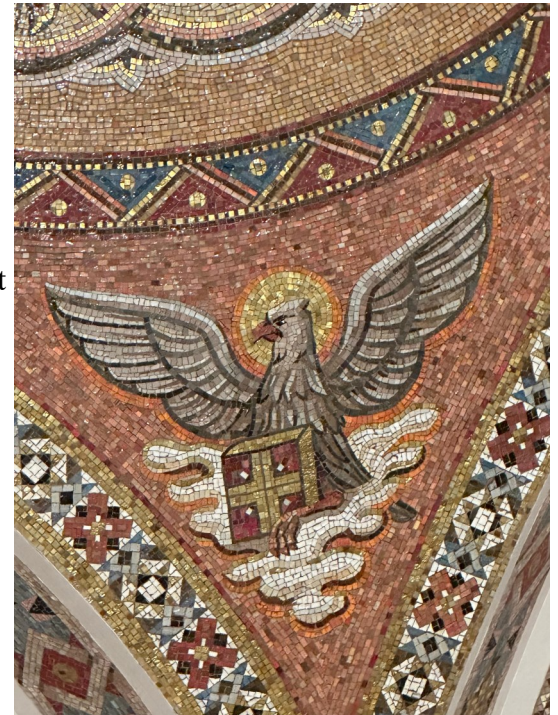

In Matthew's Gospel today, we can also wonder about this Good News that Jesus asks the apostles to preach. They are to go only to the Jewish people and to proclaim that the Kingdom of Heaven is at hand. For us, this Kingdom may not mean very much. For the Jewish people of the time of Jesus, it probably meant that the Messiah had come and a lot of them would have hoped for freedom from the Romans and freedom to live their faith without interference from others. For some, this Kingdom would have meant a re-establishment of the previous Kingdom of Israel.

Jesus generally means that the Kingdom is the presence of God in the world. The Kingdom is truly present in you and in me when we are following God and trying to be faithful to God's word. The Kingdom is present within us. And when we join with others who are also faithful to the Word of God, then the Kingdom becomes present within the believing community.

So when Jesus sees that lots of people are looking for God and want to follow God, Jesus tells us that the harvest is abundant.

What about our own times? Are people looking for God? Are you looking for God? Am I looking for God? That is the challenge. That is the invitation. God invites us to seek the Kingdom. And as we seek, then we discover that the Kingdom is right here in our midst. Like the chosen people in Exodus, we shall suffer on the way to discover the Kingdom, even though it is right here.

Let us pray this Sunday for a deeper awareness of God's divine presence in our personal lives and in the life of our Christian communities. Let us ask that the Holy Spirit will give us the vision to see how God is present in our world. May we have the power to ask for God's healing, for the life of those who are dying, for freedom from demons. Let us ask for the gift to see how we have been born up on eagle wings.

Christ's Compassion: The importance of proclaiming the good news of the Kingdom of Heaven

Jesus has compassion for the crowds. He decides to send out His twelve disciples to heal the sick, raise the dead, and proclaim the good news of the Kingdom of Heaven. Jesus instructs his disciples to freely give what they have received, encouraging them to serve others with love and generosity.

The Gospel passage from Matthew emphasizes the importance of proclaiming the good news of the Kingdom of Heaven. Jesus sends out His disciples to share the message of salvation and reconciliation with others, calling them to repentance and faith in God.

Weekly Thoughts on Giving

“As you go, make this proclamation: ‘The kingdom of heaven is at hand.’” Matthew 10:7

Many of us take our lives for granted. We think we have plenty of time to “repent.” Maybe we should live with a little more urgency in making things right with God. This is the difference in living our discipleship out of obligation versus out of love. Obligation implies we do the minimum required. Love implies we want a relationship. God wants us to be with Him in Heaven forever, but He also wants to be in relationship with us right now, while we are on earth. Start this second – invite the Lord into your heart.
