FROM OUR RECTOR

Dear Parishioners,

This week, we celebrate the birth of our nation on July 4th. In the Declaration of Independence, we find these words: "We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their creator unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness." Throughout the course of human events, we have experienced men and women who have given their lives to defend and preserve what we hold most dear. Let us not fail to be grateful to the thousands and thousands of men and women who have served in our Armed Forces. Just a reminder that Mass on July 4th will be at 8:00 am.

The scene in our Gospel today from Mark is a rather common scene in Jesus' public life: a crowd of needy people gathering around him, seeking healing and comfort. Even one of the leading men of the synagogue of Capernaum makes his way through the crowd, approaches Jesus, and implores him: "My little daughter is at the point of death. Come and lay your hands on her, so that she may be well and live." Finding himself in front of the powerlessness of men and women, Jairus sees his only hope in Jesus. If this man who, though among the powerful of Capernaum, strips himself of pride, arrogance, and security of social dignity and is not ashamed of asking for help, how much more should we do it? His words are not a long speech but a prayer that is both simple and dramatic. Jesus does not waste any time and "goes with him" immediately.

As the news of the girl's death spreads, everyone loses all hope that she might be healed and says not to disturb the teacher from Nazareth anymore. And perhaps Jairus is about to give into resignation. But Jesus says to the desperate man: "Do not fear, only believe." Having arrived at Jairus' house and surrounded by the weeping and shouting of the crowd, Jesus tells everyone to be calm because "the child is not dead but sleeping." In biblical language, death is understood as falling asleep in anticipation of being awakened. The dead, therefore, lie as if asleep and wait for the voice of the Lord himself to awaken them. And so, Jesus stands in front of the girl. God's mercy is stronger than death. And it is on the mercy that we build our lives, like the wise man who builds his house on the rock.

ARCHBISHOP'S COLUMN

The law of the Lord is the path to genuine flourishing

If we take our liberties for granted, they can turn into license, or doing whatever feels good and makes a profit

Dear brothers and sisters in Christ,

What would you say about a nation that was upside down in its values: that valued things over people and profit over fairness; that was sexually out of control and religiously hypocritical; that found and insisted on every possible way to treat people as objects?

I'm not scolding. That's actually the prophet Amos' description of ancient Israel. Amos saw a land that was materially prosperous but morally and religiously bankrupt. What was meant to be a land of liberty — freedom in God — had turned into a land of license — doing whatever feels good and makes a profit.

If that sounds reminiscent of our national situation today, that's not Amos' fault. His prophetic message to ancient Israel sounded a warning we still need to hear and heed: "God sees that. God will not support you in it. Therefore, things will fall apart."

But, paradoxically, those very similarities contain the seed of good news: If contemporary American woes look the same as ancient Israel's woes, the solutions look the same, too! And so the Church gives us Psalm 19 and Psalm 119 as readings this week. Both psalms showed ancient Israel the path forward; they do the same for us.

Psalm 19 points toward the law of the Lord as the path to genuine flourishing. Psalm 119 is a comprehensive reflection on the law, literally walking through every letter of the Hebrew alphabet to show how attention to God's law can — and needs to — permeate every aspect of our lives. We might say it was an ancient version of the fourth step of Alcoholics Anonymous: Make a searching and fearless moral inventory of ourselves.

That's the path forward, both individually and nationally. We need to make a searching and fearless moral inventory of the ways, big and small, we have departed from the law of the Lord, and start returning to it.

Brothers and sisters, what a blessing it is to be in this land! We have liberties that others cannot count on and we can simply take for granted. But there's the rub: In taking them for granted, we sometimes become sloppy about them. That's when, like ancient Israel, our liberty devolves into license. And that's when, like ancient Israel, we can — and need to — turn our blessing into a responsibility.

Do you remember the story about someone asking Benjamin Franklin what kind of government the Constitutional Convention had created? He responded: "A republic...if you can keep it." The "if" seems more prominent today. But that, too, has an ancient parallel. Amos told ancient Israel: You can keep the land if you make a commitment to keeping the law of God. Similarly, as Catholics, we make our best contribution to national flourishing when we realize that our deepest citizenship is in heaven and commit to abiding by heavenly laws.

In a reading we hear this week, St. Paul says to the Ephesians: "You are fellow citizens with the holy ones." When we commit to our citizenship in heaven, we become better citizens on earth. Heeding the prophet Amos, let's commit to keeping the law of the Lord and helping our country to be a land of liberty rather than license.

Weekly Thoughts on Giving

"...as a matter of equality your abundance at the present time should supply their want, so that their abundance may supply your want, that there may be equality." 2 CORINTHIANS 8:1

One of the tenants of living a grateful and generous lifestyle is giving without expecting anything in return. It is important that we not only grow, nurture, and share our gifts; but that we also teach our children and encourage others to do the same. This is the communal aspect of our Catholic faith. We are the "Body of Christ." We are called to be dependent on each other and not live in isolation.

Catholic Charities

Catholic Charities’ LAMP program (Language. Access. Multicultural. People.) offers around-the-clock in-person and virtual interpreting and translation services - in courtrooms, hospitals, counseling sessions, and other critical settings - that empower people and build relationships by bridging cultural and linguistic divides. LAMP interpreters translate in more than 48 different languages, including American Sign Language (ASL).

LAMP offers a free Community Interpreting Line for limited English-speaking families in our community that is available 24/7 and 365 days a year. Call 1-888-260-3791 for assistance. If you have any language skills and want to make a difference in your community, interpreting and translation work ensures life-giving services are accessible. More information, please go to ccstl.org or contact your Parish Ambassador Alisa Goessling at 314-367-5500.

Infant Baptism

According to the mind of the Church, parents are obliged to see that infants are baptized within the first weeks after birth. As soon as possible after the birth, or even before it, parents should request the sacrament for their child and are to be properly instructed in preparation for it. Godparents are also encouraged to have baptismal preparation before the child is born. If you are a registered parishioner who is or is about to become a parent or godparent, contact the parish office at 314-373-8202 to schedule a baptism.
