Archbishop Mitchell T. Rozanski and the people of the Archdiocese of St. Louis welcome you and hope that your time in our Mother Church may be an opportunity to share our faith and joy in Jesus Christ.

Please enjoy the beauty of this building dedicated to the glory of God and built for the inspiration of all who enter. Public tours of the Cathedral led by volunteer guides are available most weekdays, call for availability.

All visitors who are not of the Catholic faith are welcome to join us in prayer, but not to receive Holy Communion. Reception of Holy Communion is a sign of unity of faith and full membership in the Catholic community. Together let us pray for the eventual unity of all believers.

If you desire to become a member of the Catholic Church or to become a member of the Cathedral Basilica Parish, please complete a registration card, available at the entrances the church.

FROM OUR RECTOR

Dear Parishioners,

Today we celebrate the Solemnity of Saint Louis IX, the King of France, Patron Saint of the Archdiocese of Saint Louis and of our beloved Cathedral Basilica.

St. Louis IX, King of France, was the son of Louis VIII, King of France. He was born at the Castle of Poissy in the diocese of Chartres on the 25th of April 1215. His mother was Blanche, daughter of Alfonso, King of Castile. King Louis VIII, his father, died when Louis was only 12 years old, and on the first Sunday of Advent 1226, the coronation ceremony took place in the historic Cathedral of Rheims.

In the year 1234, Louis IX married Margaret, the oldest daughter of the Count of Provence. Two years afterward, Louis took the reins of government in his hands. His only aim was to be a faithful servant of God and a loving father to his people. He attended Mass every day and spent an hour in prayer and meditation every day. Even in the night, he often rose from his bed to visit a chapel which he had built in honor of the blessed Virgin Mary. In addition, he built magnificent churches in honor of the Mother of God, bearing testimony to St. Louis' great love and devotion to her. The holy King was also remarkable in his charity.

In July of 1270, he and his army embarked for Sardinia, where a council was held. There was a fearful heat; malignant fevers and other epidemics broke out among the soldiers of St. Louis. The King's son died, and on the same day the King himself was seized with the same disorder. Aware of his critical condition, he called his son and successor, Philip, to his death-bed, gave him instructions, and asked for the last sacraments. So after the King quoted the words of the psalmist: "Lord, I will enter into Thine house; I will adore in Thy holy temple and will give glory to Thy name." St. Louis gave his soul into the hands of God on the 25th of August 1270.

The heroic virtue of St. Louis shone brighter in his afflictions than it could ever have done in his triumphs.

St. Louis King of France, pray for us.

ARCHBISHOP'S COLUMN

Attentive Listening Can be a 'Characteristic Expression' of Catholics

As we approach election season, a two-step approach to political discourse can be productive in our country.

Dear brothers and sisters in Christ,

“Grace to you and peace from God our Father and the Lord Jesus Christ.” That’s a characteristic expression of St. Paul. In fact, we hear those exact words twice this week: once from Second Thessalonians and again from First Corinthians.

Speaking of “characteristic expressions,” St. Paul closes Second Thessalonians by saying: “This greeting is in my own hand, Paul’s. This is the sign in every letter; this is how I write.”

Most of us have known someone with a distinctive writing script. We could tell when a note was from our mom or dad, or a sibling or grandparent, or a close friend just by looking at the writing. Similarly, many of us had a priest, teacher, coach or mentor who had a special turn of phrase or tone of voice: We knew it was them speaking even if we couldn’t see them.

The Catholic tradition has a similar idea when it comes to the spiritual life. In Galatians 5, St. Paul names the characteristic works of the flesh (dissensions, factions, outbursts of fury, etc.), and the characteristic expressions of the Spirit (joy, patience, kindness, etc.). Similarly, St. Ignatius of Loyola, in his “Rules for the Discernment of Spirits,” names some characteristic patterns by which we can recognize the Holy Spirit’s actions in the soul and the actions of the enemy of human nature in the soul.

What’s our “characteristic expression” as Catholics, especially in a political season?

If we don’t have a ready answer to that question, maybe it’s time for us to develop one.

In a recent letter on the value of literature, Pope Francis talks about “listening to another person’s voice.” I think we could honestly say: That’s not a characteristic expression in American political discourse! Maybe it should be.

I wonder if we could develop a two-step approach to political discourse in the coming months, one that could become a characteristic expression for Catholics.

Upon hearing any political position, perhaps our first step could be: “Well, here’s what I think is right about that…” Even when we disagree, could we start by finding the best in another’s thoughts?

Then we might follow up with: “But here’s where I don’t agree with it” or “here’s where I can’t support that position.”

This two-step approach could allow us to expand our discourse beyond the sound bites that are the characteristic expression of political ads and debates. It could civilize our approach to each other, while still allowing us to engage in substantive disagreement.

This week we come to the end of August. Looking back over the past three months, a lot has happened! But Jesus is still Lord, and our day-to-day tasks at the end of August are pretty much the same as they were at the beginning of June. Looking ahead, the same can be said for the coming three months. A lot will happen! But, at the end of November, Jesus will still be Lord, and our day-to-day tasks will be pretty much the same as at the start of September. Wouldn’t it be nice if, at the end of the next three months, people were saying: “Well, whether you agree with them or not, those Catholics listen attentively, and they bring wisdom and peace into hard conversations”? That would be a great characteristic expression.

St. Patrick Center Casserole Program

St. Patrick Center is a ministry of Catholic Charities that transforms lives and works to create a community where everyone has access to sustainable housing, employment and healthcare.

Casseroles and non-perishable food items donated by volunteers of the St. Patrick Casserole Program provide one week of nutritious home-cooked dinners for St. Patrick's Women's Shelter and/or canned goods for the community pantry. RCIA

Have you ever thought about becoming a Catholic?

Do you know someone who might be interested in becoming Catholic?

Are you interested in finding out more about the Catholic Church?

Is your spouse, fiancé, neighbor, or friend interested?

The Rite of Christian Initiation of Adults (or RCIA) enables those who are interested in the Catholic faith to “find out what it is all about”. Most often, people come because they are invited.

Be the voice of Christ and offer the first invitation to someone you know who might be interested in the Catholic faith!

RCIA is for persons who have never been baptized, were baptized in another Christian tradition, or were baptized Catholic but have never celebrated Confirmation or received First Communion. It is also open to anyone who is interested in learning more about what Catholics believe and why we believe it. You are invited if you've been Catholic all your life, if you have a passing interest in the Catholic faith, or if you are anywhere in between!

The 2024-25 RCIA session will begin September 8.

To register or for additional information, please contact
Fr. Zac Povis at 314.373.8204 or zacharypovis@archstl.org

Weekly Thoughts on Giving

“If it does not please you to serve the Lord, decide today whom you will serve...As for me and my household, we will serve the Lord.” Joshua 24:15

When we commit to serve the Lord, we become a disciple in the work of the Lord. A disciple is a person who spends time in prayer every day, joyfully participates in charitable works and generously supports their local parish and Church mission. If we say we serve God, our words and actions should reflect the Gospel message to others.
