FROM OUR RECTOR

Dear Parishioners,

The month of November draws its special spiritual tone from the two days with which it opens: the Solemnity of All Saints and the Commemoration of all the Faithful Departed (All Souls). The mystery of the communion of saints illuminates this month directing our meditation to the earthly destiny of each one of us in light of Christ's Paschal Mystery.

We have a great response for our Cathedral Basilica All Souls Novena beginning on All Souls Day. We will remember these souls at a Mass each day of the Novena, beginning on All Souls Day, November 2. Also on November 3, the Archbishop will be here to celebrate a special Mass to remember the priests of the Archdiocese of St. Louis who died this year in addition to those we pray for during our Novena. There will be candles placed along the sanctuary that symbolize the lives of each priest who passed away in the last year.

It was in the middle of the 11th Century that St. Odilo, Abbot of Cluny (France), decreed that all Cluniac monasteries offer special prayers and sing the Office for the Dead on November 2, the day after the feast of All Saints. The custom spread from Cluny and was finally adopted throughout the Roman Church. Throughout the month of November, the Book of the Dead - another custom commemorating our deceased - will be located in the All Souls Chapel. Please feel free to inscribe the names of your loved ones in this book so that we may remember them.

As we pray for our deceased loved ones, it bears a calling to mind the teaching of purgatory. I truly like what Pope Benedict once said in one of his homilies: "Purgatory basically means that God can put the pieces back together again." Which leads to ask the question what will it be like?

Saint Catherine of Genoa, a mystic known for her vision of purgatory indicates that it will be a type of fire, though not like that used to describe the experience of hell. "Rust which is sin, covers souls, and ... is burnt away by fire, the more it is consumed, the more the soul responds to God. ... As the rust lessens and the soul is opened to the divine rays, happiness grows," she wrote.

Fire has a lot of effects: light, heat, warmth and destruction. But when a precious metal is placed in its midst, it's purified and perfected. Purgatory is a letting go of habits, vices, and ways of thinking or knowing that prevented us from loving as we ought during our lifetime.

The poet Dante likened the soul's experience in purgatory to climbing a mountain, the summit being paradise. The climber might have to shed things that are bogging him down on the ascent. That process, of course, can be grueling, but with every step, one moves closer to the goal.

ARCHBISHOP'S COLUMN

Placing our Body & Soul into God's Hands Reminds us of our Inevitable Death

Mary is an example for us to lean into trust & receive what is ours from the hands of God

Dear brothers and sisters in Christ,

We are going to die.

In the month of November, we especially remember the dead in our prayers. But we need to remember that we, too, are going to die. How can “remembering our death” help us to live more deeply as disciples?

This week we read Romans 14, where St. Paul gives us a beautiful place to root our reflections: “None of us lives for oneself, and no one dies for oneself. For if we live, we live for the Lord, and if we die, we die for the Lord; so then, whether we live or die, we are the Lord’s. For this is why Christ died and came to life, that He might be Lord of both the dead and the living.”

It’s powerful and consoling to see this point of continuity: Jesus lived, died and rose again, so that the hand that we hold in our living can be the same hand that holds us in our dying. If we train ourselves to focus on that hand, we can have more peace.

In Luke 16, Jesus asks with respect to wealth: “If you are not trustworthy with what belongs to another, who will give you what is yours?” A lot of things in the spiritual life fall into place if we really ponder that last line: “Who will give you what is yours?”

Think about it: in the Garden of Eden, the devil tempted Adam and Eve to reach out and take what God was already going to give them. God always wanted them to be like God. But that gift could only be received, not taken. By trying to seize it, they lost what could have been theirs.

Then, in the temptation in the desert, the devil tried the same trick: He offered Jesus all the kingdoms of the world. But those kingdoms already belonged to Jesus! He knew He didn’t have to reach out and seize them; He would receive them from the Father’s hand. By waiting on the Father’s timing, He received what was properly His.

We live in the tension of that fall and that victory. Sometimes we try to reach out and grasp what can only be received — and in the grasping, deprive ourselves of what is ours. Sometimes we lean into trust and receive what is ours from the hands of God.

Mary’s “dormition” is one of the great icons of this truth. At the end of her earthly life, Mary’s passing to the next life was as simple as falling asleep. One last time, she placed her whole self — body and soul — into the hands of the Father. But, of course, she could do that so graciously because she had lived her whole life that way as well.

That’s where Mary can be our model. Placing our whole self — body and soul — into the hands of God is the inescapable reality of death. But that inescapable reality at the end of our life is also a daily invitation throughout our life. God invites us to live into the distinction between grasping and receiving each day.

That’s what it can mean to “remember our death” in our daily living. What if we spent the month of November working on remembering our dying and letting ourselves fall into the hands of God each day?
