Dear Parishioners,

We are told in our Gospel today that Jesus stood in the temple to hear the Law; experts read the texts and then explained them. In the synagogue there was a special seat for those who explained the Scriptures, called the "chair of Moses," to suggest that Moses was present in the one who explained the Law. A replica of this seat can be found in the excavations of synagogue in the town of Chorazin about 2 miles North of Capernuam. Jesus' first statement is precisely about this chair, occupied by the experts of Pharisaic tendency. When they explain the Scripture, Jesus asserts, their doctrine is right and must be preserved, but their behavior is something else.

In this they are not to be followed. Jesus addresses the distance between the asserted principles and the life one leads by beginning with the criticism of the widening of the phylacteries" (small, cube-shaped leather cases that contain rolls of parchment with biblical passages, and that are tied to the left arm and forehead). Their origin is suggestive: the Word of God is to be remembered (the one placed on the forehead) and put into practice (the one placed on the arm). But all this had become mere externals.

Jesus then evokes the gesture of "making the fringes long": these are braids of fabric with a cord placed at the four corners of the outer garment. "When you see it, you will remember all the commandments of the Lord and do them, and not follow the lust of your own heart and your own eyes," it is written in the book of Numbers (15:39).

It is important to note that, in the Gospel, Jesus is not making an attack on all the Pharisees and all spiritual leaders. We know that there were some very good Pharisees. Generally speaking, the Pharisees were among the most observant and devout of Jews. What Jesus was attacking was not specific people so much as a certain arrogant and hypocritical way of thinking and acting, of which some people in his time were guilty.

Today’s Gospel, addressed to all of us, calls for integrity and honesty, where there is no pulling of rank, no demand for respect or privilege or a hearing, no double standards, but a deep sense of equality and mutual respect, a desire to serve, to share what we have and are for the benefit all.

Respond to the world’s darkness by choosing the light of God’s call

God’s love flows into the world through us when we help other people around us follow His call.

Dear brothers and sisters in Christ,

It’s National Vocation Awareness Week (Nov. 5-11). It’s also the end of Daylight Savings Time. We’ll feel the darkness in a new way this week. But I think vocations are a kind of light, so it’s fitting that the two are tied together.

There’s a sense of international political darkness these days, as well. Many people respond to that darkness with anxiety. But the question of international political decisions is, for most of us, beyond our sphere of influence. The question of following our own vocation, however, and helping those close to us discover and follow theirs, is within our sphere of influence. So I want to propose that the best way to respond to the world’s darkness is to make a choice for the light of God’s call and to help others within our sphere of influence do the same.

All the readings for the feast of the Dedication of the Lateran Basilica (Nov. 9) shed some light on the issue of vocations.

Both Ezekiel 47 and Psalm 46 focus on “the river” as an image of God’s saving love flowing through history. That image ties into the question of vocations when we ask: How does God want the “river” of His saving love to flow into the world through me?

The natural and supernatural gifts that God gives each of us are the beginning of an answer to that question. In his Letter to the Romans, for example, St. Paul says: “I will not dare to speak of anything except what Christ has accomplished through me.” Then he names the special way God’s love flowed through him: Paul’s call was to preach the Gospel where it had never been heard before.

So let’s ask each other: What’s the special way God’s love flows into the world through you? The most important way we can respond to the world’s darkness is to let that light increase in us.

The First Letter to the Corinthians, the Gospel and the Office of Readings all speak of the Temple. Jesus speaks of the temple of His body. St. Paul — building on the idea that we are members of Christ’s body — says: “You are God’s building … You are the temple of God.” And the Office of Readings develops a beautiful parallel between church architecture and the way we live our lives: “Whenever we come to Church we must prepare our hearts to be as beautiful as we expect this church to be … Just as you enter this church building, so God wishes to enter into your soul.”

At each turn, these points touch on the question of vocations. We become members of Christ’s body, but each of us is a different part of the body. We are temples of the Holy Spirit, but the Spirit gives us different gifts. Church buildings are images of Christian souls, but church buildings differ from one another, just as people do. In each case, there’s a particular call and a particular gift that we carry from God into the world. The question of vocations is a matter of discerning the gift and staying true to it.

We end the week by marking the celebration of Veterans’ Day (Nov. 11). For myself, and on behalf of the Church, I thank those who responded to the call to serve our country! I think they offer a fitting challenge to every one of us: How will we respond to the call to serve God?

Christian Leadership is a Call to Service

Today’s Gospel continues to elaborate on the tension between Jesus and the scribes and Pharisees. Our Lectionary sequence at this point, however, is not quite a continuous reading of Matthew. In between last week’s reading from Matthew and this week’s, we find Jesus’ question to the Pharisees about the Messiah being “David’s son.” Having concluded a series of dialogues with the Pharisees and other religious leaders, Jesus now directs his words to the crowds, warning them not to follow the example of the scribes and Pharisees.

The scribes and Pharisees were teachers of the Mosaic Law. They were entrusted with its interpretation and, thus, were influential in determining Jewish practice. In order to appreciate the conflict that is evident in this passage, we must understand that Jesus was basing his teachings on the same laws and traditions available to the Pharisees. Both were interpreting the Law of Moses in order to better adapt it to contemporary Jewish life. The differences between their teachings, therefore, are often highlighted and amplified by Matthew.

This part of Matthew’s Gospel reflects aspects of the conflict between his Christian community and Pharisaic Judaism. Matthew’s Church is thought to have included many Jewish Christians who may not have believed that a break with the synagogue was necessary to be a follower of Jesus. Jesus tells the crowd that it is correct to do and observe what the scribes and Pharisees teach; it is their example that is to be avoided, namely, their love of being honored and exalted. Hence, the Gospel reflects the tension of an active internal debate within the early Church.

Jesus references two aspects of Jewish spiritual life prescribed by the Law of Moses. Phylacteries are small boxes which contain Scripture verses that are placed on the left forearm and forehead. Tassels refer to the fringes worn on the corners of a person’s garments; the tassels help to remind those who wear them to keep the commandments.

The warning Jesus gives against seeking places of honor in the community was directed as much toward the Christian community as the named Jewish leaders. Indeed, it is a warning that resonates with us today. Christian leadership is a call to service for the glory of God; those who would be leaders among us must, like Jesus, be servants of all.

Sacrament of Marriage

Congratulations to Mr. & Mrs. Michael Morgan who were united in the Sacrament of Marriage at the Cathedral Basilica on Saturday, May 20, 2023 at 1:30 in the afternoon.

Love is patient, love is kind; love does not envy or boast; it is not arrogant or rude. It does not insist on its own way; it is not irritable or resentful; it does not rejoice in wrongdoing, but rejoices with the truth.

1 Corinthians 13:4-8
A Thought on The Sanctity Of Life

“Death is a decisive moment in the human person’s encounter with God the Savior. Helping the Christian to experience this moment with spiritual assistance is a supreme act of charity. It encompasses the patient with the solid support of human relationships to accompany them and open them to hope. Palliative care and hospice are precious and crucial instruments in the care of patients with serious and complex chronic or terminal illnesses, and they help provide comfort to both the patients and their families.”

Welcome New Parishioners

A very special welcome to our new parishioners! We have been blessed with many families joining the Cathedral Basilica parish this month. The Cathedral clergy, rectory staff, and your fellow parishioners joyfully welcome you and pray for you and your families.

November – Month of the Holy Souls in Purgatory

The entire month of November is dedicated to the Holy Souls in Purgatory. With the exception of the last two days, the entire month of November falls during the liturgical season known as Ordinary Time, which is represented by the liturgical color green. This symbol of hope is the color of the sprouting seed and arouses in the faithful the hope of reaping the eternal harvest of heaven, especially the hope of a glorious resurrection. It is used in the offices and Masses of Ordinary Time. The last portion of the liturgical year represents the time of our pilgrimage to heaven during which we hope for reward. The last Sunday, which marks the beginning of Advent, the liturgical color changes to purple, representing a time of penance.

Anima Christi Young Adults

Anyone between the ages of 18 and 39 is invited to join in prayer and fellowship with the young adult community of the Cathedral Basilica on Thursday, November 9th. Our gathering begins with Holy Hour at 6:30pm (enter through the west door, by the playground). Afterward there will be dinner in Boland Hall. Please join us, in full or in part, to deepen your relationship with Christ and with one another.

Weekly Thoughts on Giving

"Whoever exalts himself will be humbled; but whoever humbles himself will be exalted.” - Matthew 23:12

The world celebrates people in the spotlight and those who have the most of everything. We think celebrity, money and possessions is the key to happiness. Yet, our world is filled with more loneliness, anxiety and depression than ever before. The key to a happy life is relationship. Relationship with God and each other. Trust is the foundation of any good relationship and humility is the seed of trust.
