WELCOME TO OUR VISITORS

Archbishop Mitchell T. Rozanski and the people of the Archdiocese of St. Louis welcome you and hope that your time in our Mother Church may be an opportunity to share our faith and joy in Jesus Christ.

Please enjoy the beauty of this building dedicated to the glory of God and built for the inspiration of all who enter. Public tours of the Cathedral led by volunteer guides are available by appointment.

All visitors who are not of the Catholic faith are welcome to join us in prayer, but not to receive Holy Communion. Reception of Holy Communion is a sign of unity of faith and full membership in the Catholic community. Together let us pray for the eventual unity of all believers.

If you desire to become a member of the Catholic Church or to become a member of the Cathedral Basilica Parish, please complete a registration card, available at the entrances the church.

All contributions to the Cathedral Basilica parish, ministries, and maintenance are sincerely appreciated.

FROM OUR RECTOR

Dear Parishioners,

I am pleased to share with you that we have hired a new Director of Sacred Music for the Cathedral Basilica after an almost year-long search. Andrew Kreigh will begin his time with us on Monday, June 20th. Currently, he serves as the Director of Music for the Diocese of Madison, where he serves as the organist and Director of the Diocesan Choir and Diocesan Schola Cantorum. Andrew served as the assistant organist at the Cathedral of St. Joseph in Hartford, Connecticut, before returning to his home of Madison.

I am deeply grateful to Ben Blasingame, our Interim Director of Sacred Music, for his dedication and hard work. Ben has made it possible for the Cathedral to continue its beautiful Sacred Music program during a time of transition.

On Palm Sunday, we go up the mountain with Jesus towards the Temple, accompanying Him on His ascent. The procession which normally takes place before the Mass is meant, then, to be an image of something deeper: to reflect the fact that, together with Jesus, we are setting out on a pilgrimage along the high road that leads to the living God. This is the ascent that matters. This is the journey which Jesus invites us to make as we enter Holy Week. Through the various liturgies of this coming week, we are invited to enter more deeply into the paschal mystery of our savior's suffering, death, and resurrection.

On Good Friday we are taken to the mount of Calvary. "Christus factus est pro nobis oboediens usque ad mortem, mortem autem crucis." - "For us Christ became obedient unto death, even death on a cross." Through Christ's death on the cross, He opens for us the way to salvation and eternal life. The Cross of Christ, which we will venerate on Good Friday, is the cause of hope and reminds us constantly of God's love for us.

Our celebration of Holy Week comes to an end on Holy Saturday evening. The story of our salvation history is recalled for us through the readings at the vigil and culminates in the proclamation of the account of the resurrection. In the resurrection of Jesus, love has been shown to be stronger than death, stronger than evil. Love made Christ descend, and love is also the power by which He ascends.

ARCHBISHOP'S COLUMN

God-given names express our deepest identity and mission

ARCHBISHOP

SERVE THE LORD
WITH GLADNESS

Knowing His true name set Jesus free from the agendas of others and enabled Him to devote all energy to the Father's plan

Dear brothers and sisters in Christ,

"The Lord called me from birth, from my mother's womb He gave me my name" (Isaiah 49).

Did you know you have a name — not the name your parents gave you, but a name that God gives you?

According to the Catechism of the Catholic Church, this name "expresses a person's essence and identity and the meaning of this person's life" (CCC 203).

So, for example, the Catechism notes: "Jesus means in Hebrew: 'God saves.' At the annunciation, the angel Gabriel gave Him the name Jesus as His proper name, which expresses both His identity and mission" (CCC 430).

St. John Paul II said much the same of Mary in his encyclical "Redemptoris Mater" ("Mother of the Redeemer"): "For (at the annunciation), the messenger greets Mary as 'full of grace;' he calls her thus as if it were her real name. He does not call her by her proper earthly name: Miryam (Mary), but by this new name: 'full of grace.'"

There are many naming episodes in the Bible which alert us to this spiritual reality. And it's a rich and fruitful theme in the spiritual life. But it's also helpful because of how it sets us free.

Think of it: Jesus knew His "name," which gave Him His identity and mission. That made Him free from everyone else's agenda for His life. Wouldn't it be nice to live with that kind of freedom? And being free from everyone else's agenda left Him free to give all His energy to the mission the Father gave Him — even and especially the hard parts of that mission, which we see and hear in abundant detail all through Holy Week. Wouldn't it be nice to have that kind of strength in our own lives — to be able to say, with Jesus at the pivot point of betrayal, "Now is the Son of Man glorified, and God is glorified in Him" — in other words, "this is exactly why I'm here — this is my mission"?

Knowing our name can become a home base for consolation and a guiding compass for discernment. It's a home base for consolation, because as long as we rest in our God-given identity and mission, we'll maintain the kind of consolation that comes from remaining in right relationship with God. It's a guiding compass for discernment, because we can judge every proposed course of action by this criterion: "Is this consistent with the identity and mission God has given me — my spiritual 'name' — or does it take me away from that identity and mission?"

So here's a simple exhortation for this week. As we walk with Jesus through the events of Holy Week, as we see Him live His name — the identity and mission the Father gave Him — let's listen for the name that God gives each of us. Let's pray to know our deepest identity and mission and for the clarity and strength to live them out.

Remember Your Rice Bowls

The Lenten effort known as Operation Rice Bowl comes to an end upon the completion of the Lenten season. Normally collected during the Mass of the Lord's Supper on Holy Thursday, we ask that you place collected funds into an envelope clearly marked "RICE BOWL", and drop into the mail slot in the front door of the rectory. You may also drop collected funds into the regular mail, though checks are recommended for mailing. All collected Rice Bowl funds will be forwarded to the poor through Catholic Relief Services.

A Lenten Retreat with Sacred Art

Sacred art is meant to assist in the raising of the mind and heart to God. As Pope Benedict XVI wrote, "Images of beauty, in which the mystery of the invisible God becomes visible, are an essential part of Christian worship... The image of Christ and the images of the saints are not photographs. Their whole point is to lead us beyond what can be apprehended at the merely material level, to awaken new senses in us, and to teach us a new kind of seeing, which perceives the Invisible in the visible." (The Spirit of the Liturgy).

To assist in our Lenten journey, a different piece of sacred art will be displayed each week in the All Souls chapel of the Cathedral Basilica. This week we feature Pietas (on the next page) located this week in the All Saints chapel. This is the final segment in this series.

A Lenten Retreat with Sacred Art

Week 6: Pietas

(located in the All Saints chapel)

“Standing by the cross of Jesus were His mother and His mother’s sister, Mary the wife of Clopas, and Mary of Magdala. When Jesus saw His mother and the disciple there whom He loved, He said to His mother, ‘Woman, behold, your son.’ Then He said to the disciple, ‘Behold your mother’... When Jesus had taken the wine, He said, ‘It is finished.’ And bowing His head, He handed over the spirit.” (John 19:25-30)

This week’s painting by local artist, Evelyn Astegno, illustrates the darkness the Blessed Mother underwent on Good Friday and Holy Saturday. We can only imagine the agony she experienced on Good Friday as she witnessed the cruel torture of her only Son. She was there as the crowds shouted for the release of a notorious revolutionary and murderer instead of her innocent Son. She walked with Him as He carried the heavy, wooden cross through the streets of Jerusalem. She stood by Him as He hung, suffering on the hill of Calvary. And now she holds the lifeless body of the One who is the Son of God and her Son also.

And yet, her sadness is without hope. Her Son promised that He would rise again from the dead; that He would endure death only to conquer it and to emerge from the tomb victorious. And Mary believed Him. Good Friday and Holy Saturday were the most extreme tests of Christian hope.

As Mary held the lifeless body of her Son and watched it be sealed up in the tomb, all earthly evidence and wisdom suggested that she would never see Him again. It is precisely in such moments, when all earthly lights and helps have gone out, that Christian hope must enter in. Such hope is not grounded in earthly evidence and wisdom, but rather in the promises of God, who is always trustworthy. Mary teaches us how to look at the bleakest of human experiences and to have confidence that even this God has redeemed. Yes, there is sadness. Yes, there is anger. But there is not despair or fear. Because God Himself has chosen to enter into that most fearful enemy of our nature – death – in order to conquer it on our behalf. “Even though I walk through the dark valley, I fear no evil, for You are with me.” Yes, the dark valleys of life are very real, and we all must walk through them. But on Good Friday and Holy Saturday, Mary teaches us how to trust that we need not fear the darkness because God Himself has promised that He is with us in the midst of it.

As the season of Lent draws to a close and we prepare to enter the holiest week of the liturgical year, perhaps consider where you are in need of a strengthening of Christian hope. What dark valley are you walking through? Of what are you most tempted to be afraid? With Mary, we are invited to look upon that anything that makes us afraid and know, with full confidence, that Christ has overcome; that Good Friday will give way to Easter; that death will give way to eternal life!

*Our Lady of Sorrows,
Pray for us!*

A Thought on The Sanctity Of Life

“Despite our best efforts, it can sometimes be difficult to recognize the profound value of human life when we see its full weakness and fragility. Yet, the faithful care of human life until its natural end is entrusted to every person.”

40 Days for Life

The Cathedral Basilica has adopted Sunday, April 10, as its day for the spring 40 Days for Life campaign and needs prayer vigil volunteers. Volunteers simply pray quietly during a one-hour shift on the sidewalk outside of Planned Parenthood on Forest Park Avenue. Volunteers can sign up for any hour between 7:00 a.m. to 7:00 p.m. at <http://www.coalitionlife.com/vigil-calendar-stl/> or by writing to bryankirchoff@att.net with the desired time.

Weekly Thoughts on Giving

"...I tell you, Peter, before the cock crows this day, you will deny three times that you know me." (LUKE 22:34)

How many times have you heard someone make a disparaging comment about God or our Catholic faith? How did you react? Do you remain quiet not to cause a disturbance? Or, because you don't want people to think negatively about you? Or, because you don't think you know enough about the Catholic faith? Pray for the courage to speak up and enter into a respectful dialogue when the opportunity arises. Joyfully share your faith with others.
