FROM OUR RECTOR

Dear Parishioners,

In the “Galilee of the Gentiles,” the Gospel—the Good News—is heard for the very first time. It is no accident that Jesus begins his public ministry there, in a place where pagans and outcasts lived side by side. Into that mixed and often troubled world, Jesus proclaims a decisive word: “The time is fulfilled.”

With those words, human history turns a corner. The time of violence, hatred, abandonment, and division begins to give way to a new time—the time of God’s kingdom. The reign of love, forgiveness, salvation, and God’s mercy draws near, and from that moment on it begins to take root in human life.

The Feast of the Word of God, which we celebrate today, reminds us that this voice has never fallen silent. From the shores of the Sea of Galilee to the Church today, the Lord continues to call people to conversion and new life. Jesus speaks this same word to Simon and Andrew as they cast their nets, and to James and John as they mend theirs: “Come after me, and I will make you fishers of men.”

Jesus meets them in the language they understand best. He offers them a new horizon—an existence no longer limited to familiar routines and fixed schedules, but a life immersed in the vast sea of human history, sent to reach others struggling in the troubled waters of the world and lead them toward salvation.

The Gospel tells us that “immediately” they left their nets and followed him. As Saint Paul reminds us in today’s second reading, “the appointed time has grown short.” The concerns that so often consume us—mourning and rejoicing, buying and possessing, dealing with the world—can easily entangle our hearts and exhaust our lives.

The Lord does not come to diminish life, but to free it. He comes to untangle what has become knotted and to expand our hearts. He calls us to love more broadly, to grieve with those who suffer, to rejoice for the good of many, and to recognize that the gifts of this world are meant to be shared.

Along the shores of our own lives, Christ still walks and still calls. Bent over our daily labors and struggles, we hear the same invitation: “Come after me.” In answering that call, we discover not a loss, but a fuller, freer, and more generous life in God’s kingdom.

ARCHBISHOP'S COLUMN

St. Thomas Aquinas Offers Habits of Thought for a Complex World

St. Thomas had a habit of inviting his readers to think through objections by making distinctions

Dear brothers and sisters in Christ,

This week, as we celebrate Catholic Schools Week, we also observe the feast of St. Thomas Aquinas on Jan. 28.

Don't worry — I'm not going to recommend that everyone needs to read St. Thomas' masterpiece, the "Summa Theologiae."

But I do think — especially as the nation turns 250 and the Archdiocese of St. Louis turns 200 — that everyone would benefit from adopting some of the Angelic Doctor's habits of thought. Let me name two in particular.

First, St. Thomas had a tremendous capacity to listen to objections — and not only to listen to them, but to take them at their best. Every question in the "Summa Theologiae" begins with an objection to the position that Thomas wants to take — in fact, usually with at least three (and sometimes as many as 10!). St. Thomas did that for many reasons: in part because the objections were really out there and needed to be answered; in part because many of the objections were partially true, and those partial truths needed to be integrated into a more complete picture; in part because he thought the faith could stand up to those objections.

Whether it's a political debate, a philosophical debate or a theological debate, we'd do well to take a page from his book.

Second, St. Thomas had a habit of inviting his readers to think through objections by making distinctions. Let's make a distinction between what the Bible says and what the Bible teaches.

It says that some of the ancient patriarchs had many wives; it doesn't teach that polygamy is OK.

If God is everywhere, does it really matter where we pray? Every place can be a place of prayer, but there's a real difference for us when we pray before the Blessed Sacrament.

ARCHBISHOP

Aren't we all God's children? Yes, but there are multiple layers of that: God is the father of all creatures, all rational creatures, all the baptized and all the saints in different ways.

How does the distinction between object, intention and circumstance qualify every moral action? If you do a good deed, but for the wrong reason, in the wrong way or at the wrong time, the intention and circumstances make it less good.

Those are just a few examples of the power of distinctions in how the Catholic faith approaches the world. A complex world requires many distinctions.

Jesus said — and we read it this week in Mark 4 — "The measure with which you measure will be measured out to you."

It's fair to say that American public discourse has become characterized by not listening carefully to objections, by not making the most of them and by not making distinctions in reasoning. This measure has been measured out and measured back so many times that it's spiraled into shouting matches and echo chambers. Can we do better?

St. Thomas' habits are a school for something better. As the archdiocese turns 200 and the nation turns 250, he offers a model of maturity. We don't need to know all the answers he knew; that's a field for specialists. (And it's good that we have specialists.) But we can all learn something by adopting his habits of thought. Schooling ourselves in those habits will benefit ourselves, the Church and American culture.

St. Thomas Aquinas, pray for us!

Stewardship Reflection

"He called them, and immediately they left their boat and their father and followed Him."
MATTHEW 4:22

Just as Jesus called the first apostles, He calls each of us to follow Him, too. Not everyone is called to leave their business or family behind, but we are expected to put God first in everything. In gratitude to God, we should give our first and best of everything to Him: our time in daily prayer, our talent in participating in one of our parish ministries and our treasure to support the financial needs of our parish mission.

WITNESS TO LOVE

Do you love your marriage, your faith, and helping young couples grow into a strong marriage?

We are launching a new program, Witness to Love, that will provide our engaged couples with one-on-one couples mentoring to give the best foundation for their marriage.

Criteria to be a mentor:

1. 5+ years sacramentally married
2. Actively practicing the Catholic faith
3. Loving your marriage
4. Willingness to "be real" about the graces & challenges of married life!

If you have interest in being a mentor, please email Father Archer
archer@cathedralstl.org

STEWARDSHIP ALIVE!

Why A Registered Parishioner

Due to the number of requests for baptisms and weddings, the Cathedral Parish adopted a policy years ago that generally requires parents to be registered parishioners of the parish before their infant may be baptized here, or for an engaged person to be a registered parishioner and practicing Catholic for a minimum of one year for preferred dates and for a more modest stipend. Non-parishioners must be registered in a Catholic parish somewhere and will need to secure their pastor's permission to be baptized or married outside of their proper parish before we can schedule any ceremony. If you attend Mass at the Cathedral regularly but have not yet registered, register online at <https://cathedralstl.org/about-basilica/parish-life> or call the parish office for more info!

Giving Statements

If you are expecting a giving statement from the parish and you have moved within the last year, please make sure we have your updated address, by emailing Susie at sirons@cathedralstl.org. Thank you for your assistance!

Confessions will be heard during Adoration. Following Adoration, all men are invited in Boland Hall for fellowship and dinner.

An offering of $20 is suggested. Please RSVP by Monday, January 26 to Michael Weisbrod at michael.weisbrod@rcfstl.org to reserve your dinner spot!
